

I urge you to rule against Verizon's petition regarding cell phone number portability. The inconvenience and cost associated with having to change one's phone number in order to change companies is being used as a tool in an attempt by Verizon to prevent current customers from seeking better service.